

To learn more about the course and the application process, contact Y-Press director Lynn Sygiel at 317 444-2012.

The Y-Press bureau is located downtown in The Indianapolis Star building.

Learn more about the youth-media organization by visiting www.ypress.org or call (317) 444-2010.

IUPUI's Education Department and Y-Press offer a summer graduate course

Power of the question

This summer with support of grant, Y-Press and IUPUI's Education Department will offer F500: Topics in Education: Power of the Question, a 3-credit graduate course.

Many studies have shown an alarming lack of critical thinking by Americans. The Y-Press question project seeks to share what happens when individuals learn to write, and then pose, meaningful questions. During this course, participants will collaborate with other educators and youth to develop a unique standards-based curriculum designed to teach middle and high school students the skills of critical thinking, inquiry and thoughtful questioning.

WHEN: July 13 to July 24 from 8:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. daily

WHERE: IUPUI campus

WHO: Though we encourage all interested middle and high school teachers to apply, this course is of particular interest to social studies, English, journalism and humanities teachers. Interested applicants should submit an application and 10 will be selected. The course's cost is paid for in full by a grant.

Y-Press is a diverse, youth-driven organization that develops leadership, civic engagement and critical thinking through journalism. A variety of media formats provide a forum for local and global youths' perspectives.